Additional comments:

Ray did an excellent job supervising his interns, as well as teaching the Internship group supervision course when asked. His interns report that he is approachable, that they feel safe disclosing failures and mistakes in supervision, and that they trust he can help them figure out ways forward with their client. He has had to have difficult gatekeeping conversations with one supervisee about disposition issues and whether clinical practice is the best fit for her. Ray has managed these kindly and compassionately and has demonstrated the ability to maintain a non-anxious presence in high stress supervisory discussions. He was a pleasure to supervise as he supervised others.
